Milton Abbas Fun Day 2014

Once again this event, now firmly part of the Milton Abbas social calendar, was held in the surroundings of the Milton Abbey School and offered entertainment, music, food and drink. There were sports activities, an opportunity to learn or improve circus skills, an art exhibition and a 'who dunnit?' presented by the Middleton Players. In fact, something for everyone and best of all it was all free. Free entry, free entertainment and if you chose to bring a picnic then your day was complete without spending a penny. Incidentally, that was free too!

The weather was kind although in the morning there was a slight breeze but by the afternoon that had dropped and it was a warm and gentle summer afternoon. All in all a delightful day out, something for everyone, young and old, yet rather strangely it was not as well attended as expected. Certainly more than a hundred turned up, but given Milton Abbas now has a population close on 600... Where were they all?

For those seeking a more subdued and contemplative afternoon there was of course the cricket match. Now a regular fixture on Fun Day. Many of those passing by, coming in or leaving, were a bit surprised at the number of cricketers sporting, even by today's standards, rather long hair. Flowing locks one might say... Fear not. The match was between the Dorset and Cornwall under 16 Ladies' teams. Cornwall won, we hear.
